

ATTEMPT AT BLACKMAIL CARRIES WITH IT THREAT TO WRECK HOME

Elmer Small Selected Victim
—Told to Leave $1,000 at Certain Point

POLICE NOW INVESTIGATING

Handwriting Apparently Now Disguised, Being of Boyish Style—No Attempt Made Thus Far to Carry Out Terrible Threat.

Containing a demand for $1,000 and a threat to wreck his home in the event of failure to carry out its provisions, a letter that represented a startling attempt at blackmail was received Tuesday by Elmer Small of 322 Washington avenue. The letter was placed in the hands of the police and investigations started.

The letter read: Place $1,000 under the store at the bathing beach or we will blow your house up if you don't put it there by Tuesday night. We will show you." The letter was enclosed in a stamped envelope purchased at the Charleroi postoffice, and was mailed at Speers.

All Tuesday night a watch was kept on the bathing beach store by the police, Small having been instructed to place a package there. This part of the program was successfully carried out, but no one appeared to claim the pocketbook, so the waiting of the police was in vain.

The letter was written in a handwriting that looked familiar to the police. It was a boyish style and no apparent effort had been made to disguise it. There was an absence of capital letters and punctuation consisting of a single period at the end.

So far there has been no attempt to carry out the threat to wreck the Small home. The police will keep an eye on it for some time.

The attempt at blackmail is one of the first that has originated in Charleroi for some time. Usually the letters are received by foreign people, but this was not written by any member of a supposed Black Hand gang. Blame was indirectly placed on a well known Monongahela valley character for whom a search is being made.

More than a year ago an attempt was made by foreigners to extract the sum of $200 from a well known Charleroi professional man, the threat being made that his head would be cut off and placed on a post, his wife killed and his home dynamited.

PAINTER FALLS 125 FEET AND IS LIVING

C. H. Ice of Donora Takes Tumble From High Porch, But Sorrowing Fellow Workmen Fail to Find Him Dead When They Reach Him.

C. H. Ice, aged 25 years, a painter of Donora fell 125 feet from a scaffolding at the new Donora Zinc plant this morning and is still living with the chances good for his recovery. The worst injuries reported from the Memorial hospital at Monongahela where he was removed are a fractured left arm, a fractured left leg and a slight concussion of the brain.

NEW WINDOW GLASS FACTORY TO BE STARTED AT WASHINGTON

County Seat Men Organize Company to Carry on Manufacture—150 Men To be Employed.

Washington's newest industry, the Pittsburg Window Glass company factory began operations Monday. Announcement that the plant would open resulted in fully 150 laborers flocking there.

The buildings used by the old Pittsburg Window Glass company have been entirely remodeled and the factory when completed will be modern throughout.

The Pittsburg Window Glass company of the present, which was organized by Washington men prominent in the glass industry and the capital of which is held almost solely by Washington people, will manufacture window glass by the machine process.

Six Frink machines that will have a wonderful capacity when they have once been placed in perfect working order have been installed.

MORE VICTIMS IN HOSPITAL

Louis and Charles Capatin Taken From Fayette City to Pittsburgh Institution

INVESTIGATING EXPLOSION

Two more victims of the powder explosions of Monday at the Apollo mine near Fayette City have been taken to the Mercy hospital at Pittsburgh to receive medical attention for their severe burns. These make three now in the institution, Charles Dolan who was considerably fatally burned, still being cared for there. Joseph Greenlee died and his funeral is being held today. Those taken Tuesday to the hospital were Louis and Charles Capatin, brothers.

Officials of the Pittsburg Coal company have taken up an investigation into causes. Much interest is being manifested in the coroner's inquest, which will be held Friday evening at either the council chambers or the opera house. Coroner S. H. Baum of Fayette county will either come in person or deputize Deputy Coroner John J. Crowley to assume charge.

Doctors are unable to determine as yet whether there are internal injuries which may prove fatal.

Ice was helping change the scaffolding when he lost his balance and dropped. His fellow workmen hurried to him, expecting to find him mangled and dead. Instead they found him alive, though unconscious. He had fallen on comparatively soft earth.

MINERS DECIDING MINE SUSPENSION

Settlement of Important Problem to be Reached Today At National Convention—President White's Policies to be Supported

The 1,200 miners delegates in attendance at the annual convention of the United Mine Workers at Indianapolis are today settling the question whether the coal mines of the United States will suspend operations on April 1 until a new wage contract is negotiated between the operators and miners, or whether miners will continue at work until their representatives reach a new wage scale. The floor leaders of the proposition to continue work are President Van Bittner of the Pittsburg district and John T. Dempsey of Scranton.

The question is whether the delegates representing nearly 400,000 miners will adhere to the conservative policy of President John P. White or whether they will go with the more radical element to throw down their tools while negotiations are on a new wage scale. It is apparent that the White policies will prevail.

RELIEF FUND TO BE TAKEN ON THURSDAY

All Plans Laid for Local Campaign to Aid Jews—Envelopes Being Distributed—Need is Reported From Abroad

Final plans are being laid today by local workers for the collection tomorrow of contributions to be used for the relief of Jews abroad who are trapped by the great European war. This afternoon envelopes are being distributed in certain districts, and tomorrow they will be collected by school children with such contributions as people feel able to make inclosed. The committee of which N. Greenberg is the head is actively preparing for a thorough canvass of the town tomorrow.

The cry for aid is one that is being universally heeded. Jews are suffering from the war as no other race is, and their need is pronounced. By the breaking out of the war fully one-half of the Jewish population of the world was trapped in a corner of eastern Europe that is absolutely shut off from all neutral lands and from the sea.

Russian Poland, where more than 2,000,000 Jews lived, is in a salient. South of it is Galicia, the frontier province of Austria. Here lived 1,000,000 Jews. Behind Russian Poland are 15 Russian provinces, which, together with Poland, constitute the pale of Jewish settlement. Here lived 4,000,000 Jews.

Thus 7,000,000 Jews—a population exceeding that of Belgium by 1,000,000—have borne the brunt of the war. They were overwhelmed where they stood and over their bodies crossed and recrossed the German armies from the West, the Russian armies from the East and the Austrian armies from the South. True, all the peoples of this area suffered ravage and pillage by the war, but their sufferings were in no degree comparable to those of the Jews.

Shipped as Freight.

Hundreds of thousands were forced from their homes on a day's notice, the more fortunate being packed and shipped as freight—the old, the sick and insane, men women and children, shuttled from one province to another, side-tracked for days without food or help of any kind—the less fortunate driven into the woods and swamps to die of starvation. Jewish towns were sacked and burned wantonly. Hundreds of Jews were carried off as hostages into Germany, Austria and Russia. Orgies of lust and torture took place in public in the light of day. There are scores of villages where not a single woman was left inviolate. Women, old and young, were tripped and knouted in the public squares. Jews were burned alive in synagogues where they had fled for shelter. Thousands were executed on the flimsiest pretext or from sheer purposeless cruelty.

The appalling situation of the stricken Jews in the war zone, particularly as it exists in Russia, where nearly half of the Jewish population of the world lives, has been graphically described in the Russian Duma or Parliament by members of that organization. Addressing the Duma recently, one of the deputies said:

"Never-to-be-forgotten."

"Anyone who has seen how these expulsions take place will never forget them as long as he lives. The exiling took place within 24 hours, sometimes within two days. Women, old men and children and sometimes invalids were banished. Even the feeble-minded were taken from the lunatic asylums and the Jews were forced to take these with them. In Mohilnist 5,000 persons were expelled within 24 hours. Their way led to Warsaw through Kalwayra. Meantime they were forced to travel across fields through the government of Lublin, and were deprived of the possibility of taking along their inventories. Many were obliged to travel on foot. When they reached Lublin the Jewish committee there had provided bread and food for them; but they were not allowed to tarry, and they had to travel on at once."

"On the way an accident occurred; a six-year-old child was killed by a fall. The parents were not permitted to bury the child."

See Wives Expelled.

"I saw also the refugees of the Government of Kovno. Persons who only yesterday were still accounted wealthy were beggars the next day. Among the refugees I met Jewish women and girls, who had worked together with Russian women, had sewed garments with them, and who were now forced to encamp on the railway embankment. I saw families of reservists. I saw among the exiles wounded soldiers wearing the Cross

TWO KILLED AND TWO HURT IN HEAVY FALL OF SLATE AND STONE

MONONGAHELA GETS PROMISE OF FEDERAL BUILDING ALTERATIONS

Fire Proof Material to be Used in Place of Non-Fireproof—Stone Substituted for Terra Cotta.

Much desired alterations are promised in the latest plan proposed for the construction of the new Federal building at Monongahela. Congressman Henry W. Temple took up the question of changes with the supervising architect of the treasury department, and B. R. Newton, assistant secretary wrote him back that the desires of his constituents would be complied with to the fullest extent possible.

Sometime ago Monongahela's plans were altered and the tentative price reduced $8,000 from the original. Monongahela people protested, with the present result. Fireproof material will be substituted for non-fireproof, and stone will be substituted in the construction for terra cotta. The general appearance of the building will be much enhanced.

WILL COOPERATE WITH CREDITORS

Thompson Liquidation Committee Reaches Agreement In Receivership Matter

ONE OFFICE AT PITTSBURGH

An agreement whereby the secured and unsecured creditors of Josiah V. Thompson, of Uniontown, will co-operate to attain adjustment of claims in the receivership proceedings involving more than $50,000,000 in bituminous coal lands in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia was adopted at a meeting of the creditors' committee at New York Tuesday.

Alexander C. Robinsin, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the committee, issued the following statement after the meeting:

The committee feels assured of the co-operation of both the secured and unsecured creditors and of the financial institutions and all others concerned in view of the far-reaching interests involved affecting the value of all bituminous coal property in the eastern part of the United States. The committee decided to adopt a deposit agreement and to call for the deposit of unsecured claims thereunder. The secured creditors will also be negotiated with a view of securing their co-operation.

The proceedings involve about 270,000 acres of coal properties. The meeting was held at the office of Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, which, besides Mr. Robinsin, is composed of the following: E. T. Hitchman, Wheeling, W. Va.; James A. Campbell, Youngstown, O.; A. R. Hamilton, Pittsburgh; A. F.

Assistant Mine Foreman Miller and Ray Davis Meet Death at Globe Mine

KEEGAN AND HANNEN INJURED

Roscoe and Coal Center Men Caught Under Eight Tons of Slate and Stone—Miller Married But Brief Time—All Men Well Known.

Two men were killed and two others seriously injured in a fall of about eight tons of slate and stone at the Globe mine of the Vesta Coal company near Roscoe at about 11:30 o'clock this morning.

The Dead

JAMES P. MILLER, aged 29, married. Assistant mine foreman. RAY DAVIS, aged 31, married, leaves wife and three children.

The Injured.

GEORGE KEEGAN, of Roscoe, injured seriously about the body. Taken home.

GEORGE HANNEN, of Coal Center, injured about the body.

The fall occurred in an entry way of the mine where Miller and the others were working. Miller himself was caught under the full force of the fall of slate and stone and his body crushed to a pulp. Davis' body was not so much mangled. Both were instantly killed.

Keegan and Hannen were near enough to get caught under the edge of the fall, but did not suffer the worst consequences. Fellow workmen hearing the noise rushed to the scene and pulled the two injured men away. First aid treatment was extended while the bodies of Miller and Davis were being rescued from under the debris.

Both Miller and Davis were well known. Miller was a brother-in-law of John Cairns, assistant mine superintendent. He had been married but nine months. He was a promising young man in mining circles and popular. Davis was employed as a day hand.

The probable result of the injuries received by Keegan and Hannen could not be determined at once by the doctors called into attendance. Of the two probably Keegan was the worst hurt. It is not thought that either will die.

OUT-DOOR SLEEPING.

That which is looked upon as a fad today becomes the necessity of tomorrow. This is largely the case with outdoor sleeping, says the state health commissioner.

With the beginning of the active campaign against tuberculosis but a few years or so ago, out-door sleeping was recommended for those suffering from tuberculosis and others whose general physical condition
seemed to warrant it.

These pioneers were looked upon by their friends and neighbors with interest and they openly expressed belief that if they survived this exposure, which was doubtful, they would soon tire of the experiment anyhow.
As a matter of fact there are a hundred open air sleepers today where there was one a decade ago and it is no longer limited to those who are ill
in health.

All who have tried open air sleeping are enthusiastic about it and they constitute an ever growing group.

A sleeping porch is coming to be looked upon as an essential part of the home. Whole families have taken to sleeping in the open and have been so benefited by it that they would never consider anything else.

The proper garb to insure warmth
despite the temperature is essential.
With a warm room for dressing accessible there is no reason why this invigorating and stimulating custom should not continue to grow in popularity.

Many men and women who of necessity must spend their working hours
in-doors can obtain during their rest
at night, at least a portion of the outdoor air that Nature intended us all to have.

Sleeping porches can be constructed on the most modest homes at a comparatively small cost and in the majority of instances they can be guaranteed to save their cost in doctor bills. The change from sleeping in closed warm rooms to out-door sleeping must be brought about gradually, giving Nature time to meet the new conditions. The very old or very young demand more protection than the adult in the prime of life.

No sterner warning could be sounded or word of caution plainer spoken than that contained in the terribly human picture. "The Taste of Death", appearing in hundreds of newspapers in the state at the request of the Pennsylvania State Department of Health. The picture represents a fond mother tasting from a spoon which she is about to place in the mouth of her infant child. How familiar to us all is this scene. How awful! Unconsciously the mother, lovingly careful, as she thinks, may be signing the child's death warrant.
Think of it! Never does she dream of her affliction with a death-dealing disease and never does she dream of her calm bestowal of it upon the helpless infant who seems all of life to her. But such is the sad case.
The picture finds reproduction in everyday life, yet how few stop to consider. Yet how terrible a lesson it forms.

Telephone lines, electric power lines and shade trees do not, never have and never will harmonize. They won't mix, and eventually in Charleroi a decision will have to be reached as to which the town will give preference, shade trees or poles and wires. As trees grow they push telephone poles and electric lines out of the way, for they insist upon free and untrampled possession of the heights to which they aspire. The consequence is damage to the lines and some times danger to the trees and mankind. Pyro-technic displays are not unusual where wires are rubbed bare and electrical juice allowed full play, and conditions might be worse. Most cities call for wires to be placed underground, and eventually Charleroi will approach to that ideal, allowing shade trees to regain their composure
and beauty and a chance to stretch.

"Get the Majestic Habit"

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The street car was crowded and a gentleman with kindly twinkles in his eyes took five-year-old Tom upon his lap.

"This will be better than standing,
won't it, my boy?" he suggested.

"Uh, huh," Tom replied without enthusiasm. He had rather enjoyed lurching about the aisle, just like his father.

"But you want to be careful that I don't pick your pocket," the gentleman cautioned in a whisper.

"Can't," Tom retorted, his voice
somewhat muffled: "soon as I saw you lookin' at me, I put my penny in my mouf."

A northern attorney, after acquiring a large South Carolina estate,
formed the Eureka Debating Society to encourage free speech among the negroes of the neighborhood. On his next trip South he was confronted by the proud winner of the society's prize.

"Now, what was the subject of the debate, Sam?" asked the attorney.

"De subject were, What is de most benefit to mankind, sah, de sun or de moon?" answered the negro.

"And which 'side did you uphold?"

"De moon, sah. I jes' argued dat
de sun shines by day, when we doan'
need de light, but de moon it shines by night, when dat light certainly an needed. An' dey couldn't answer dat, sah!"—Exchange.

CHURCH ADVERTISING PAYS; GREENVILLE PASTOR KNOWS

That it pays to conduct a church
on modern business methods, advertising liberally has been conclusively demonstrated at Greenville by the First Baptist church.

With the coming of the Rev. J.
Earle Edwards as pastor new, and to some persons, radical changes were made in church affairs. The newspapers of the town were full of the doings of the Baptist church and posters were used also. The Sunday congregations began to increase and with this the membership began to grow.
The congregation was placed on a strong financial basis even though a vast amount of improvement work was done about the church. The unused basement was transformed into class rooms, dining rooms, a reading room and athletic quarters.

Then came the non-sectarian vacation school, attended by several hundred children, and taught by half a hundred instructors. Now the congregation has voted $3,000 more for the remodeling of the church, made necessary by the increased congregation.
Rev. J. Earle Edwards has church advertising methods that are original and unique, and the results are being noted by church workers all over the country.

WESTMINSTER GUILD NAMES OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

Interesting Meeting Held by Church
Organization at the Home of Miss Marie Whitehead.

At one of the most interesting meetings of the year held by the Westminster Guild of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church Tuesday evening, the study of the Indian was taken up and officers were elected for the ensuing year.

The meeting was held at the home
of Miss Marie Whitehead.

Officers elected for the year were as follows: President, Miss Mamie Rockwell; vice president, Miss Marguerite Whitlatch; secretary, Miss Elma Collins; treasurer, Miss Stella Baudoux;
 pianist, Miss Bethel Bowman; temperance secretary, Miss Eva Watson.

The discussion of the evening was taken up under the head, "The Relationship Between the White Man and the Indian of the United States." The program was introduced by Miss Mamie Rockwell and she was assisted by Misses Grace Gelder, Helen Fleming, Anna Watson and Genevieve Nutt. The fact was brought out that in their early days, Harvard, Dar-mouth and Princeton were established for the Indians. White persons could attend out the institutions were primarily for the Indians. An Indian solo was sung by Miss Emma Clutter.
The treasurer, Miss Stella Baudoux, reported the largest special gift in the history of the organization. "The School System and a Number of their Educated Indian Products" was the subject of a paper by Miss Nora Swan. An Indian reading was given by Miss Marie Whitehead. A shower was planned for one of the members of the guild who was recently married.
Concluding the program a social hour
was enjoyed.

SLAUGHTER OF DOGS IN THE COUNTY WILL BEGIN MARCH 1

County Commissioners Set Aside Date
For Beginning of Campaign of Extermination of Canines.

March 1, 1916, will be a dog day,
but not one of the dog days of the hot summer time. On that date, the county commissioners have given notice, the killing of all unlicensed dogs will begin, and will be continued until all are dispatched.

Constables and members of the state constabulary are to be notified to proceed on March 1 and thereafter to kill all dogs that do not show the proper credentials. They must carry the 1916 license tag. On account of a misunderstanding that has arisen as to the enforcement of the new dog tax law, for this year only, dog tax will be received at the county commissioners' office and receipts and tags issued therefore.

Unpardonable Mistake

No man would be without fire insurance to care for the possible loss of his home and household goods.

And it is just as truly an unpardonable mistake to be without a savings account to care for the rainy day of life which may come at any time.

Open a savings account with this bank at once and add to it a small portion of your salary each week—and watch it grow.

FAMOUS OLD MOUNTAIN

ARARAT HAS A CONSPICUOUS PLACE IN HISTORY.

Center of Troubled Land Where Peace is a Comparatively Unknown Quantity—Proud Record Claimed by Armenian Race.

"Mount Ararat, where there has been hardly a moment's peace since Noah and his ark grounded upon its massive shoulder, is at present the huge, troubled boundary mark between the Ottoman empire and Russia, and under the shadows of the historic peak the fighting lines of Osmanli and Russian have been swaying back and forth, never far beyond the lines of the frontier," begins a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society.

"Ararat is the hub of Armenia, of the original home of the Haik people. It is also the center of what has ever been the most troubled area on earth. Tribes of Europe and of Asia have fought each other here from the dawn of history, and the remnants from the battles have settled as neighbors, hating, despoiling, massacring one another.

"Ararat is one of the most impressive of earth's mountains, for it rises sheer to the clouds out of an immense plain. The dominant mountain is split into two peaks, Great and Little Ararat. Great Ararat rises to a height of 17,000 feet above the level of the sea. Little Ararat, where the boundaries of the Ottoman empire, of Russia and of Persia meet, reaches an altitude of 12,840 feet. Though the snow line here is very high—14,000 feet—the dome of Great Ararat is covered with glittering fields of unbroken white.

"A vast wealth of legend surrounds the mountain, which has always deeply impressed the imaginations of the peoples who have wandered, passed or settled beneath it. The Armenian priests long believed that the wonderful mysteries of its summit might never be surveyed by human eyes, and all thought of scaling Ararat was considered almost in the light of sacrilege.

"The Armenians have also held that they are the first people after the flood, the immediate descendants of Noah, so to speak: for the first village that Noah founded after abandoning the ark was Nakhichevan. So the Armenian thinks that his people were the first race of men to grow up in the world after the flood.

"The name Ararat means 'high.' The Persian name for the mountain Koh-i-Nuh, means 'Noah's mountain.' It has been determined by the natives that the Garden of Eden was placed in the valley of the Araxes.

"Noah's wife was buried in this valley near the mountain, and grapes are still grown there whose vines are the direct descendants of vines planted by Noah."

Teddy's Good Shot.
One of Colonel Roosevelt's first hunting instructors was old Bill Sewall, a Maine guide, whom, when president, the colonel rewarded for years of friendship and advice by an office.

When he was a boy the colonel went into camp with Sewall. Deer season came along, and they went out to give the youthful Nimrod his first chance for a shot. After a time, the colonel says, they saw a stag.

"Shoot!" shouted Sewall, and the future president let go with his rifle. The stag ran a little way and dropped.

"You've got him! You've got him!" shouted Sewall, as he ran forward to investigate. "How did it happen?"

"Why," replied young Roosevelt, drawing himself up proudly, "I aimed for his breast."

"You done well," said Bill. "You done well. You hit him in the eye."

Cooper, G. S. Harsh and A. Plumer, assistant, of Uniontown.

The meeting began at 11. At the suggestion of Mr. Untermyer, G. R. Scrugham was chosen secretary of the committee and will act in his behalf. Mr. Untermyer was chosen as counsel.

Pittsburg was selected as the regular meeting place for the committee, which will open a branch office in Uniontown.

Another session will be held at Mr. Untermyer's office on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which the agreement reached Tuesday is to be signed. All of the members of the committee are in attendance.

OUR CITIZENS DEMAND

Fully Complied With.—A Charleroi Resident Furnishes It.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Charleroi people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Charleroi and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. Thomas Christopher, 117 Look-out avenue, Charleroi, says: "One of the family did a lot of heavy lifting and strained his kidneys. He suffered severely from a dull, heavy ache across his back and he got so bad that he couldn't work. He was treated by doctors and tried various medicines, but didn't get much relief. The kidney secretions were discolored and caused much annoyance. The first few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills brought him relief and one box cured him."

of St. George. It is said that Jewish soldiers in marching through the Polish cities were forced to witness the expulsion of their wives like cattle. The Jews were loaded in freight cars like cattle. The bills of lading were worded as follows: Four hundred and fifty Jews, en route to---".

It was a realization of conditions such as those described above which prompted the Senate of the United States to pass a resolution requesting the President to set aside a day upon which citizens of this country might contribute financial aid for the succor of the afflicted Jews in the war zone and that resulted in Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh of Pennsylvania, as well as other governors calling upon their people for aid.

JIM'S GOLD LEDGE

By ANSON CARTER.

It might have turned out all right for Barton if he hadn't stopped over night in the sheep camp and talked too much with Silent Coates.

Coates had little to say. Yes, he knew old man Peterson and his daughter. He even admitted that they still lived in Valley Creek. He never had known Adams. That was before his time. Yes, he had heard that he had discovered a gold mine and then lost its location, but that was all he knew. All this mostly in nods and grunts of assent, while Barton questioned eagerly.

But after the stranger lay fast asleep by the dying embers Coates took out a stub of a pencil and tore off a piece of paper from a soap wrapper in the wagon. Then he wrote a note to his nearest neighbor, as neighbors run in the land of buttes. And he tied the note with a piece of string to the collar of Brag, one of his dogs, and pointed down the valley road.

Brag knew the road. He had carried tobacco along it before, and sometimes brought back newspapers and letters. There were only three spots of human habitation throughout the valley---Peterson's, Tony Allen's claim and higher up, Coates' sheep ranch. So they all hung together in mutual dependence.

And the sovereign of the three was Sue. She was slim and dark, with glancing, witching eyes and a smile that would have made Cerberus wag his tail. And nearly every evening after sundown Tony would ride down the mountain road just to talk awhile with Sue out on the little front stoop of the shack and to tell her what it meant to him to have her even in the same world as himself.

He read the note from Coates. When he drew rein before the old shack, old Peterson was out with a lantern.

"The moon's bright enough," said Tony. "Put that out. I don't want anyone to see a light here."

Sue slept on while the two talked together out in the cleared ground beyond the house. When she awoke it was after four.

"You're here pretty early, ain't you, Tony?" she called from the wash bench at the back of the shack.

"There's more coming," answered Tony, dryly, and he watched Barton approaching them half a mile away, coming gingerly down the rough butte trail on a horse he had bought in town.

He laid two hands on her shoulders and turned her around to face him. "Remember how we've waited and hoped for years?"

"For gold?"

"No, for each other. Haven't you? Didn't I tell you when you were only sixteen what I thought of you? Look up at me. You put your arms--"

"Tony, they'll see you, please, please--"

The stranger and Peterson came leisurely up to the shack. Barton looked cheerful and friendly. He rested one foot on the first step and raised his hat to Sue.

"Get a nice little place here. I've just been looking the valley over. I'm a--er--a geologist."

"Fine rocks around here," Tony said gravely.

"Yes, splendid--or--strata. Do you happen to know of a ledge that juts out along the other side of this creek somewhere through the valley? It's hidden in a ravine. There's a small cascade there."

"I know the place," Sue answered straightly.

"You do?" Barton's small, dark eyes gleamed with interest. "I expect to build a cabin there. The water is very good, I was told. I bought the claim up from a man named Adams this spring back in Ohio."

"Pleasant to have you for a neighbor," Tony said.

Sue's dark eyes widened with amazement and swift indignation.

"But the ledge is ours, dad. He can't have it. You wouldn't sell out, would you, for anything?"

"It can't be yours if I bought it up last spring from Adams, could it?"

"And how could you buy it from a man that's been dead over a year?" demanded Tony, coolly, stepping between them. "Jim Adams died in the county hospital right south of here in Sweetwater. He sold everything he ever owned in Valley Creek to Peterson here and it's on record. What are you so anxious about taking it up for?"

Barton hesitated, choosing his words, watching the girl's face.

"Well, since that's so, I don't want to put through a crooked deal. I'm willing to put up cash and work it out fifty-fifty with you all here."

"Work what out?" demanded Sue.

"Jim's gold claim. I'll tell you the straight truth. I was a nurse at the hospital where he died, and he told me about the ledge and where it was, showed me the sample of rock he'd brought away with him, and after he died I took it down and had it assayed. It showed $800 to the ton. Pretty good, isn't it? So I came after it. But you're in before me. Want a partner?"

Peterson shook his head slowly. "It's all in my girl's name. I ain't got anything to say."

Sue laughed and put her hand in Tony's.

"I've got a partner, thanks, Mr. Barton," she said.

UNRULY CHILDREN

A truant officer has declared that most such children who come under his observation are not properly nourished. Mal-assimilation of food makes children cross, puny, peevish and unruly. Our local Piper's Drug Store have in Vinol a reliable non-secret remedy for just such conditions, because it contains iron for the blood, and the medicinal extractives of fresh cod livers, aided by the nourishing properties of beef peptone, and if it fails to make weak, puny, ailing youngsters healthy and good-natured, they will give back your money.
